

Eades, Richard

JOINDER

Single claim, multiple possible employers/insurers

A claim cannot be rejected because the responsible employer or insurer is not a party to the appeal. To fully decide the issue of claim allowance, any potentially responsible insurer must be allowed to participate. If the state fund is implicated, the Department must be joined. It is unnecessary to join all state fund employers, although they may be allowed to participate. ...In re Richard Eades, BIA Dec., 01 17639 (2002)

BEFORE THE BOARD OF INDUSTRIAL INSURANCE APPEALS STATE OF WASHINGTON

2)
3 CLAIM NO. W-438613) ORDER VACATING PROPOSED DECISION
4) AND ORDER AND REMANDING APPEAL
5) FOR FURTHER PROCEEDINGS
6

7 APPEARANCES:

8
9 Claimant, Richard L. Eades, by
10 Springer Norman & Workman, per
11 Leonard F. Workman

12
13 Self-Insured Employer, Ocean Beach School District #101, by 14 Law Office of Craig A. Staples, per
15 Craig A. Staples

16
17 The claimant, Richard L. Eades, filed an appeal with the Board of Industrial Insurance
18 Appeals on July 17, 2001, from an order of the Department of Labor and Industries dated June 15, 19 2001. The order of June 15, 2001, reversed a Department order dated February 28, 2001, and 20 denied the claim on the basis that the claimant's condition is not the result of the exposure alleged.
21

22 REMANDED FOR FURTHER PROCEEDINGS.

23 DECISION

24
25 Pursuant to RCW 51.52.104 and RCW 51.52.106, this matter is before the Board for review
26 and decision on a timely Petition for Review filed by the claimant to a Proposed Decision and Order
27 issued on May 30, 2002. The Proposed Decision and Order affirmed the Department order of 28 June 15, 2001. We remand this matter to the hearings process to join the necessary parties for a
29 full adjudication of the issues raised by this appeal.
30
31

32
33 We agree with our industrial appeals judge that Mr. Eades did not establish that he suffered
34 any injurious noise exposure while working for Ocean Beach School District. We do not agree,
35 however, that the claim should be rejected based on this record, which shows that Mr. Eades does
36 have occupationally related hearing loss. To determine the insurer on the risk, it was incumbent 37 upon our industrial appeals judge to join each and every insurer who may be responsible for 38 Mr. Eades' condition. By affirming the Department order without joining these parties, Mr. Eades is 39 placed in the unenviable position of having to file a further claim, hoping this time to fortuitously
40 name the party responsible for his hearing loss. Not only is that unfair to Mr. Eades, but this 41 piecemeal approach to the adjudication of his claim could lead to inconsistent results. In light of 42 these concerns, we hold that a claim cannot be rejected simply because the worker failed to identify
43
44
45
46
47

1 the correct employer on the application for benefits. There is no provision in the Industrial
2 Insurance Act that requires rejection of a claim merely because the worker incorrectly identified the
3 employer. One of the advantages of the "last injurious exposure rule" noted by our Supreme Court
4 is that the rule protects the worker from the risk of filing claims against the wrong employer.
5 Weyerhaeuser Co. v. Tri, 117 Wn.2d 128 (1991). The Proposed Decision and Order runs afoul of 6 the protection afforded the worker in instances where the correct employer was not identified when
7 the claim was filed. Identification of the correct employer is necessary in order to correctly identify 8 the responsible insurer, it is not critical to claim allowance.

9
10 To fully decide the issue of claim allowance, however, any potentially responsible insurer
11 must be allowed to participate in the appeal. We intentionally refer to "responsible insurer" rather 12 than "employer" because under the industrial insurance scheme in this state, there are two potential
13 types of responsible insurers: the State Fund or a self-insured employer. The costs of workers
14 compensation benefits are borne either by the State or by self-insurers. See Weyerhaeuser v. Tri,
15 117 Wn.2d 128 (1991). In Mr. Eades' appeal, the State Fund is potentially at risk for the costs
16 associated with Mr. Eades' occupational hearing loss. At a minimum, the Department must be 17 joined under these circumstances, but it is unnecessary to join all potential State Fund employers.
18 Based on this record, it is unclear whether Mr. Eades had injurious noise exposure with other
19 self-insured employers. If there is a potential that other self-insured employers may be responsible
20 for Mr. Eades' occupational hearing loss, they must be joined also. Other State Fund employers
21 may be allowed to participate, but their joinder is not necessary to fully adjudicate claim allowance.

22
23 We are mindful that our jurisdiction is appellate only and that "[i]f a question is not passed
24 upon by the department, it cannot be reviewed by either the board or superior court." Hanquet v.
25 Department of Labor & Indus., 75 Wn. App. 657, 662 (1994), quoting Lenk v. Department of Labor
26 & Indus., 3 Wn. App. 977 (1970). Some may argue that we do not have jurisdiction to join other 27 employers because the Department order lists only Ocean Beach School District. We disagree.
28 Mr. Eades seeks allowance of his occupational disease claim. To evaluate the merits of that claim
29 the Department had to pass upon the issue of whether Mr. Eades' hearing loss was caused, in any 30 part, by employment covered under the Industrial Insurance Act. By rejecting the claim on the 31 basis that the "condition is not the result of the exposure alleged," the Department determined, at 32 least by implication, that there was no responsible Washington employer. Accordingly, we have 33 jurisdiction in this appeal to determine whether any of Mr. Eades' employers should bear
34 responsibility for his hearing loss under Lenk.

1 On remand, our industrial appeals judge must conduct further hearings to determine
2 Mr. Eades' work history in detail and, pursuant to CR 19 and WAC 263-12-045(h), join the parties
3 necessary to make a full determination in this matter. If Mr. Eades' last injurious exposure was with 4 a self-insured employer other than Ocean Beach School District #101, the industrial appeals judge
5 should so find. If Mr. Eades' last injurious exposure was with a State Fund employer, our industrial
6 appeals judge should remand to the Department to either accept this claim and establish it as a
7 State Fund claim, or in the alternative, reject this claim and establish and accept a new State Fund
8 claim, and to determine, administratively, the ratio of responsibility of each State Fund employer for 9 Mr. Eades' hearing loss.

14 The Proposed Decision and Order dated May 30, 2002, is vacated. This matter is 15 remanded to the hearings process, pursuant to WAC 263-12-145(4), for further proceedings as 16 indicated by this order. The parties are advised that this order is not a final Decision and Order of 17 the Board within the meaning of RCW 51.52.110. At the conclusion of further proceedings, the 18 industrial appeals judge shall, unless the matter is dismissed or resolved by an Order on 19 Agreement of Parties, enter a Proposed Decision and Order containing findings and conclusions as 20 to each contested issue of fact and law, based on the entire record, and consistent with this order.
21 Any party aggrieved by such Proposed Decision and Order may petition the Board for review of 22 such further Proposed Decision and Order, pursuant to RCW 51.52.104.

28 It is so ORDERED.

29 Dated this 20th day of December, 2002.
